FRIDAY, SEPT. 12, 1884.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS:

For President: JAMES C. BLAINE, OF MAINE.
For Vice-President: JOHN A. LOCAN, OF ILLINOIS.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS:
For President: JAMES C. BLAINE, OF MAINE.
WESTON, F. MILLIGAN, OF PORTLAND.
Second District: CHARLES M. MILES.
Third District: DAVIS G. RICHARDSON.
Fourth District: CHARLES S. A. JOHNSON.

OVER TWENTY THOUSAND.

The Associated Press dispensed from Boston Wednesday night giving the Lewiston Journal's figures as too technical to convey an erroneous impression that Gov. Blaine led Redman only 17,200. In fact, these figures represented his majority over all others, and the returns given showed a clear majority for Blaine over Redman of more than twenty thousand.

Our special dispatch from Augusta confirms these figures, and gives Blaine over Redman 29,015, the largest majority ever given in a September election of a Presidential year.

The Probatory Amendment. The Lewiston Journal says: "The return from the rural towns largely increase the majority for the probatory amendment. Returns from 279 towns show the following result:

For Probatory Amendment, 25,041
Against, 23,430.

Majority for Probation, 2,611.

The total vote on the amendment in 279 towns is 57,381. The remaining towns will probably carry the total up to between 50,000 and 100,000, and give a majority of between 10,000 and 50,000 for the amendment.

Democratic opinion of Cleveland.

The Boston Globe is now one of the papers that is trying to bring about the impossible, or in other words, the election of Cleveland. The Globe, however, has not long entertained the present high opinion of Cleveland's fitness for the Presidency as it will be seen from the following paragraph which appeared in its columns June 14, 1884:

If Governor Cleveland is nominated he will not carry his own State. If Gov. Cleveland is nominated he will not be elected by the people of all the States. He has neither the reputation in National Legislation, the ability to interest himself with the great, the ability to interest himself with the single important question which concerns them at large, nor has he views known on which he can stand, or reform, or reform, or reform. In fact, Cleveland is not known to the people of this State as being fit for the Presidency. The question is asked in every State, "Who is Cleveland?" The answer is, "He is the man of New York." What does that amount to? To a large number of voters it is vital to the American people, for which the people at large stand ready to make a united and strong pull altogether.

What has brought about the change in the Globe's position? Has Cleveland in a few weeks familiarized himself with all great National questions? Is the public mind, is the same moment, but he was when the Globe published the above paragraph, and the mere fact of his being the Democratic candidate is not going to influence the votes of the people who desire to know why they should support a man that even a Democratic organ like the Globe, so recently denounces as being fit for this great office. Will the Globe please call upon the public?

There will be more sacred concerns in the predictions of the so-called Independents at a discount now.

The Tribune did nobly last Monday and sent the compliments of the season to all my friends.

The Bourne organ is not saying as much as they were about the third American revolution. Look out for the advance in November.

The New York Times of Monday said that no majority under 14,000 could be regarded as a special tribute to Mr. Blaine's popularity. Well, how does 19,000 stand?

Mr. Thomas A. Hendricks is now devoting all time to impressing upon the public that he wants the Whig party to follow him. There is no coalition for Mr. Hendricks, he has known what it is to do before.

Burnham's team did not work yesterday in this State last Monday. That's all in Maine, however, is only that the Republican candidate that is to follow. Blaine and Logan and the great American policy of protection will carry the day by a large majority.

The Republican majority continues to increase, as indicated by the latest returns, the Whig organ and their supporters, who were bound to figure out a Republican defeat. In this state, will wish them to find their idea of what might be a victory at even higher figures.

The editor of the Central Times is very unique and still holding that Maine is a close State with a leaning toward the Democratic side. If the Democrats can get a majority out of a "leaning toward their side" that rolls up 17,000 or 18,000 Republican majority, why they are welcome to it.

The influence of Frank James in Democratic politics in Missouri can be gauged from the fact that the attorney who prosecuted him and the lawyer who defended him ran for the Democratic nomination to Congress. In their respective districts, the former was defeated, but the latter was successful.

The Whig and Courier thinks the Republicans ought not to allow politics to be controlled during the week of the Fall, but we know that it continues to print about the same daily account of the alleged trials of Mr. Morris against Mr. Blaine and his family.

OUR GLORIOUS VICTORY.

The Election of Blaine and Logan Made Certain.

WE WELL DONE MAINE.

[Lowell (Mass.) Courier, Sept. 9.]

If we over decorated our columns, with roosters we should do it to-day. The Democratic and Independent authorities deserve hard to make it appear that the glorious victory in Maine is a virtual defeat, but their frantic efforts to find some other cause for the landslide that the popularity of James G. Blaine in Maine, and the rightnesses of the Republican cause, show that their silly talk about a Republican majority of 20,000 to 30,000 being necessary, is more foolish.

There is in Maine showing how few Republicans of that State followed the lead of the free-state independent descendants of Boston, Cambridge and New York in their foolish expedition after "Cleveland and Reform." Title deed of "Independent" Grant no longer in the Pine Tree State. Our sturdy Republicans do not satisfy themselves by following such geneses.

Well done Maine! Your glorious example will be set in Oregon in November, the whole continent of free states will only respond to your inspiring note of triumph.

Now for you, [Philadelphia Press].

Maine has overtopped all expectation. No Republican dared to look for so large a majority and so slight a triumph. The extraordinary gains and the brilliant result will stimulate the Republican cause everywhere. They bespeak the power and influence of Mr. Blaine's candidacy. They give the answer of Mr. Blaine's neighbors to the results of Mr. Blaine's character. They scatter and scatter the slim chances that have risen from the foul pools of personal malice and detraction. They show that the Republican cause is not yet given up, but that under Mr. Blaine's leadership, representing the broadest and greatest American policy of peace and abroad, it is, in starting from the ranks of the opposition and entering upon a new career of victory.

The Republicans of the country should understand that the Democrats will make a tremendous effort to carry Ohio. It is to be seen if the Republicans will first present their case in the middle of the great North. Ohio has now become the Presidential contest, and there is no danger now if Republicans are not themselves to fail fully. The State is out with full force, but it will not do to repudiate in the assembly and then to be thorough and thorough, but bring in a bill of the finalizing victory in Maine. We will work, we will work, and the same men will bring greater and greater triumph through in Ohio.

BETTER AND BETTER.

(New York Tribune, Sept. 14.)

The news from Maine gives better as to the older. Blaine's plan is entirely Republican and the Legislature is entirely Republican. Every county officer is Republican, except two. The Democrats and Republicans have had little work to do to bring this victory that they had yesterday and yesterday it was almost too much for them.

What is to be expected in November? Maine? Somewhere from 20,000 to 25,000. For Maine, and Legion, of course. Within the last year the State were beaten by him by the opposition. Four years ago, they gave 12,25 for Garfield in the Presidential election following.

What then would the State be in a majority of 13,000 to 17,000 for Blaine in the Presidential election following?

What has brought about the change in the Globe's position? Has Cleveland in a few weeks familiarized himself with all great National questions? In the public mind, is the same moment, but he was when the Globe published the above paragraph, and the mere fact of his being the Democratic candidate is not going to influence the votes of the people who desire to know why they should support a man that even a Democratic organ like the Globe, so recently denounces as being fit for this great office.
